correct hypothesis or action, for example, dividing the problem into simpler subproblems or working backward from the goal to subgoals and actions that achieve them. Such strategies are largely omitted from both the decision theoretic and recognitional approaches. There are two problems with the traditional problem solving point of view, however:

An Update on the Latest Evaluation Theories & Models

We recognize this as a simple systems model – the connection of interdependent parts that together make up the whole. It is a graphic representation of action: often boxes are used in a flow chart diagram but any graphic is possible as long as it shows a series of connected actions. LOGICAL CHAIN of relationships – a chain of influences or events – that link inputs to
